DEDICATION

We respectfully dedicate this yearbook to the memory of Mr. Richard Whitaker who died at his home in Knobel on November 7, 1933.

He served faithfully on the Board of Trustees of Arkansas State College from the day of his appointment by Governor George Donaghey on January 1, 1912, until the day of his death; twenty-four of these twenty-six years he was president of this important group.

His record of never missing a regular board meeting in this period of time will probably never be equalled.

Mr. Whitaker served other groups with the same loyalty as he did the College. He was a State Senator for four years, on the Executive Board of the Farmers Union for fifteen years, and a member of his county central committee for thirty years.

Here was truly a great citizen of Arkansas; here was really a friend of young people and Arkansas State College.

FOREWORD

We are particularly indebted to Walt Disney Productions of Hollywood, Calif. for its special permission to use the Walt Disney characters pictured within this book.

Just as Mr. Disney's immortal "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" represents remarkable progress in the motion picture industry—so does Arkansas State College on the anniversary of its founding some thirty years ago represent progress in the educational field.

As we pause to honor those individuals who have laid the foundations for success in the past thirty years, may we aspire to aid in making the next thirty years equally as great.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The history of civilization may be written in terms of man's progress from fear to faith. Faith in ourselves and trust in our neighbors enables us to build up institutions. Institutions are essential to progress in human lives today. The early reliance on rugged individualism and its potentialities for the protection of the individual and the community and the development of the race no longer gives the assurance of security essential to the satisfactions in human life.

The "American Way" is no different today than yesterday, but the problems incident to the enjoyment of the "American Way" of life are new. There are new frontiers to explore if the retention of democratic liberty and the realizations of the fundamental right to work at tasks suited to our training and capacity and to enjoy the standard of living in keeping with human dignity are to be perpetuated.

Democracy today is apparently in greater danger than ever before on account of ignorance, selfishness, and greed of individuals, groups, communities and nations and groups of nations. To this end, optimism, faith in mankind, belief in ideals, courage and willingness to call upon and work with our fellow man are vital if we are to emerge from the narrow personal and selfish desires and become a constructive force in the world today. If we have and utilize this optimism, we will prove that we have been able to create the beginning of a new order in a peaceful and prosperous world.

Each of us has a rendezvous with destiny which means more today with the present implications of personal, social, political, and moral responsibilities than it has in the history of the world. It is our hope that your concepts of individual responsibility drawn from the cumulative apperceptive experiences of your lives today may sustain you and guide and direct you in the solution of the intricacies of the new frontiers of our "American Way."

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

In the hands of the Board of Trustees of the College rests the huge responsibility for the general welfare of the faculty, students, and physical plant. Each of the Board Members is chosen by the Governor of the State of Arkansas, and each is well qualified for his or her position.

At the death of Mr. Richard Whitaker this past November, Governor Carl Bailey appointed Mr. W. L. Banks, McCrory planter, as president of the Board. Mr. Banks has been a member of this body for the entire thirty years of its existence and is well fitted in every way for this tremendous task.

Assisting Mr. Banks is Mr. Maurice Block of Paragould, prominent northeast Arkansas insurance man, who serves as secretary of the Board, and Miss Pearle Davis of Forrest City, who is employed by the State Department of Internal Revenue.

This year Governor Bailey appointed Judge J. C. Johnson, West Memphis civic leader, and Mr. Will Mack, Jonesboro theater man, to serve on the Board of Trustees. Both of these men are familiar with problems of finance, education, and administration, and are in a position to be of considerable assistance to the school and its student body.

WILL MACK

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Through the efforts of the Board of Trustees and the President of the College much worthwhile and lasting work has been accomplished for the betterment of the College in general, its faculty, and student body. A few of the interesting achievements of these past thirty years are listed below:

FOR THE STUDENTS— A well-rounded program of intercollegiate athletics including football, basketball, track, softball, and tennis for varsity teams; the best intramural program in the South open to all students and faculty members of the College. Student publications—the Herald and Indian. Interesting social life including sororities and fraternities, departmental clubs and honor societies which are responsible for dances, banquets, picnics, and other similar functions. Interesting and beneficial musical and dramatic productions. Opportunities for student employment.

FACULTY GROWTH— From the small group of instructors needed to run the first agricultural school, the faculty of Arkansas State College has doubled and redoubled until now we have 41 full time instructors and a large group of others who serve the College in various capacities. All faculty members are chosen for their ability to “put across” their particular subject and to guide the student body by their precept and example.

DEVELOPMENT OF PHYSICAL PLANT— For the use of the students and faculty and other employees, the concerted efforts of the President and Board of Trustees have secured for the College five dormitories, three of which are new and fire-proof, approximately twenty-five faculty residences in addition to the College Club Apartments, an Administration Building with well-planned offices, classrooms, and laboratories, as well as a large auditorium equipped with motion picture facilities. A new engineering building, Demonstration School, and stadium have been completed recently. An excellent new science building and another for the Military Department are nearing completion. Extra features are the beauty and barber shops, both excellently furnished, two soda fountains, the book store where students may obtain all kinds of school supplies, and above all a beautiful and spacious campus.

DEAN D. F. SHOWALTER

DEAN OF THE FACULTY

Dr. D. F. Showalter, as Dean of the Faculty, has been of decided worth to the College. His many years of study of college problems have equipped him particularly well for his position with a knowledge of the sanctions of the institution.

Aside from his duty as Dean, he is frequently called on to go among the high school student bodies of our State and of neighboring states, to speak to them about educational problems.

He is conversant with the progressive methods of education all over the United States as well as with Arkansas. Dean Showalter is well prepared to offer excellent advice to students who expect to enter the teaching profession and other fields of activity.

REGISTRAR

Registrar H. E. Eldridge may be called the man of many trades. Indeed, his duties are many. In the first place his duty is to keep an individual permanent record of every student's activities, scholastic and extra-curricular, that comes to Arkansas State College.

It is also his task to manage the National Youth Administration for the entire College. Another of his duties is serving as consulting engineer for the constructing, maintaining, and repairing of all College buildings, and maintaining of outlying property.

He is known to the students as "Cap." When he seeks diversion from these responsibilities, he indulges in his favorite hobbies—hunting and fishing.

REGISTRAR H. E. ELDRIDGE

DEAN OF MEN

Frequently acclaimed the most popular man on the campus, Dean H. W. Hollard is known to be about the busiest. Besides serving as advisor to the various student groups, he is supervisor of the College dairy, supervisor of all chapel programs, and is an instructor.

The Dean of Men is chiefly concerned with the men students of the College, and his office serves as a forum for those who have problems concerning school or private life. It is the Dean who helps to solve these problems which may seem trivial to others.

As chairman of the Committee on Student Affairs and Convocations, he has general supervision of extra-curricular activities. In his office are centered, among other things, matters of student conduct. At all times he emphasizes prevention and cure rather than discipline. His advice is available to every student in the institution and to every organization which needs it.

MR. H. W. HOLLARD

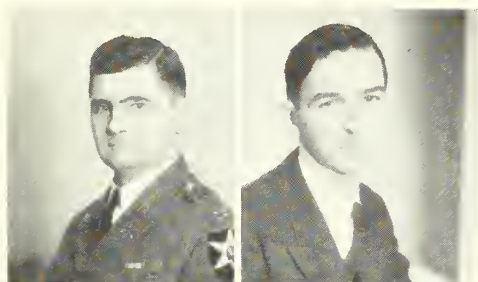

MRS. MARY ROGERS BROWN

DEAN OF WOMEN

The post of Dean of Women filled by Mrs. Mary Rogers Brown is similar to that filled by the Dean of Men. To this office come students, particularly girls, who have problems concerning dormitory regulations, rules for many social affairs, conduct, etc. It is the aim of Mrs. Brown at all times to aid in the development of a high degree of personal integrity for the women students.

At all times, the Dean of Women, welcomes questions of any nature and does her best to work out satisfactory solutions to all problems. She tries to help students gain command over personal resources which in turn brings about discipline of mind and spirit.

Mrs. Brown assumed her duties as Dean of Women with the opening of the fall term, 1937-38. She succeeded her mother, Mrs. Nannie A. Rogers, and her sister, Mrs. Adelaide Gafke, who had served capably for many years. With such high standards set before her, Mrs. Brown has fulfilled all her work efficiently and effectively.

IN MEMORIAM

DR. FRANK N. WOODRUFF

Beloved head of the Department of Business Administration and Economics passed away on March 18, 1939, after a brief illness. He truly lived his life for others and did much good for the College, students, and City of Jonesboro during his short stay with us.

President of the Freshman Class for 1935-36 was killed in an unusual accident in June, 1936. Had fate willed otherwise, he would be graduating with his class this May. He was a true friend to all who knew him and was an able leader.

GUY DAVIS

ALMA MATER

All Hail! Our grand finale!
We pay our homage here
To you, Old Alma Mater:
Stand ready by our bier.
We take our stand tomorrow
In a world that knows us not
To bear the joys and sorrows,
To labor under lot.

You lived before we came
You'll live when we have passed.
But of our list of names
We hope that some will last
As having made a gesture,
Within some passing year,
Which, when called to recollection,
Might bring some friendly tear.

We now ring down the curtain
We now yield up the helm.
It is not ours for certain
What lies in future's realm.
But Time presents the issue.
It is but ours to bow.
Alma Mater, we're going to miss you:
Goodbye! We're leaving now!

TRAINING SCHOOL

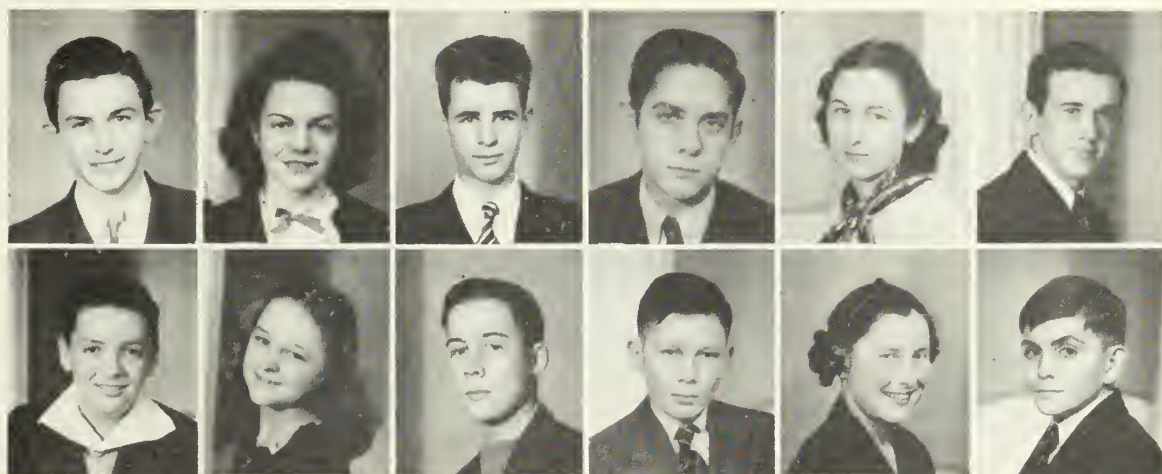

Arkansas State College Training School is an institution primarily concerned with the training of young men and young women through the high school grades. Its secondary purpose is that of training prospective teachers.

A varied field of activities is offered the students of the Training School. The social, recreational, physical, and mental aspects of the student's life are stressed. Inasmuch as he is in the school community, the student is taught to be a part of the community at large.

Combining all phases of modern architecture, the Training School building is more than adequate in every respect. The building features modern equipment in every department. The gymnasium, a separate building, affords room for the conducting of any indoor sport.

Intramural activities are featured in the physical training-recreational program. Students participate in scientific experimentation, and in agricultural, home economics, journalism, and dramatic work.

The girls learn many practical things which are often put into practice in the numerous social activities of the club, such as its annual banquet, a tea given in honor of freshman girls, a breakfast in honor of senior girls, and an annual buffet supper. Refreshments are served after each regular meeting.

RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

Captain F. J. Achatz

Major W. E. Corkill

Captain John Lewis

The Cadet Corps has been very fortunate in having as its commandant Major William E. Corkill, a war-time officer with an enviable record. A college man himself, he understands the problems which besiege the student and is always ready to lend a helping hand to any student who seeks his aid. It has been through the efforts of Major Corkill that the Corps has received the creditable rating it has today.

Captain Francis J. Achatz arrived last September to fill the vacancy left when Major Boniface Campbell was ordered to the Army War College. He has done excellent work in the short time he has been here and has gained the admiration and respect of the Cadets.

Serving as adjutant of the Corps this year is Captain John L. Lewis. His duties are varying and difficult, but he has made a hard job easy by his unswerving loyalty to the Corps.

THE CORPS

The Reserve Officers Training Corps Unit at Arkansas State College was established in February, 1936, at the request of the College authorities. Major William E. Corkill was selected as Professor of Military Science and Tactics. The original enrollment in September, 1936, was about 150 students. By intensive training under Major Corkill's supervision the Corps made such progress that, at its first annual inspection in May, 1937, it received the highest possible rating -- EXCELLENT.

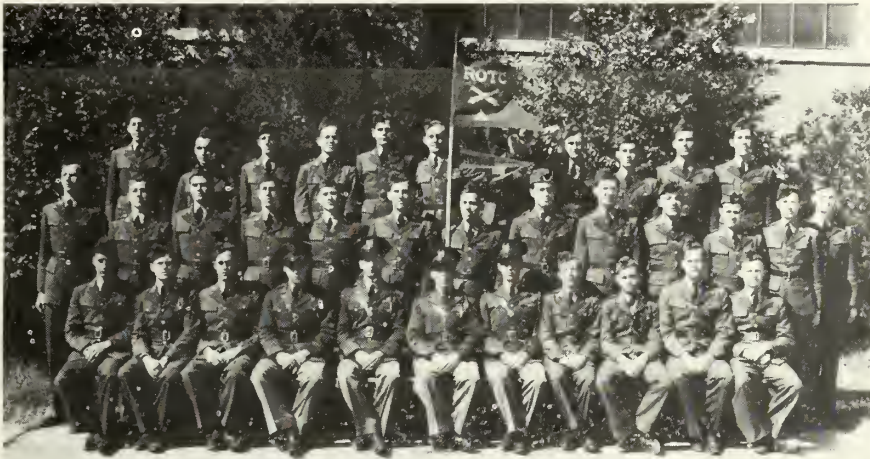

In September, 1938, the enrollment increased to about 225 students. This year the Corps has the advantage of having about 100 of the previous year's freshmen back as upperclassmen. In May, 1939, it again achieved its goal by being rated as EXCELLENT at the annual inspection.

This year, with an enrollment of about 235 students saw the beginning of advanced course work for the first time. At present there are nineteen juniors enrolled in the first year advanced course and fourteen seniors who are taking both the first and second years' work. On June 11 these advanced course students will report to Fort Riley, Kansas, for the annual six-weeks R. O. T. C. Camp. Here they will put into practice the theory that they have been taught in the preceding years of academic work.

The results of the annual inspection determine whether or not the Corps will wear the Blue Honor Star the next year.

Succeeding presidents have been Loteno Holland Clayton, Arline Bullard Thompson, and Imogene Baker who is now serving in that capacity, with Mrs. James Mason as sponsor.

The purpose of the sorority is to develop higher standards of womanhood, to foster closer relationship among the girls, and to assist in any undertaking of the College.

Alpha Sigma sponsors the first formal dance of the year, and a dinner dance is given in the spring. Shortly after school opens, the sorority entertains with a tea in honor of all the new girls. A tea is also given in the spring complimenting the girls of the graduating class. It is at this tea that an award is presented to the most outstanding senior in the sorority. A convention is held during the summer with a large number of active and alumnae members attending.

Each year the sorority presents an award to the most outstanding student in the music field. A collection of books is also given to the library. Members of Alpha Sigma Sorority take part in all social activities and worthwhile events on the campus.

On March 3, 1937, Alpha Tau Zeta sorority received its charter. Eighteen girls were initiated into its membership. Bettye Sue Fortinberry served as first president. Alice Horn, winner of last year's R. E. Lee Wilson Citizenship Award, was the second president. Miss Eleanor Heuver was chosen sponsor.

To promote good citizenship and fellowship among the girls on the campus and to uphold the high standards of Arkansas State College are the primary purposes of organization. As a major project the members have undertaken the compilation of the school's history, which is to be called "From Papoose to Chieftain."

At the opening of the fall session the girls welcome all dormitory girls and freshman town girls with a tea. In November they sponsor a backward dance. On March 4 the sorority celebrated its second anniversary with a formal dinner and dance.

During the summer vacation the girls met for a week's convention. Jonesboro has been chosen convention city for the past two summers.

The avowed purpose of the organization is to develop who are: Major and Mrs. William E. Corkill, Captain and Mrs. John L. Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Nedrow, Mr and Mrs. Clyde Knight, Roy Sigler, Dr. and Mrs. John R. Patty, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barrett, and H. W. Hollard. Mrs. H. W. Hollard is an active alumna, and Senator Hattie W. Delta Beta Chi Sorority was founded on the campus of Arkansas State College on February 11, 1935, with Mary Elizabeth Hollan of Wynne as its first president, and Miss Martha Lou Lassiter, art instructor, as first sponsor. Maggie Lew Hogue is now serving her second term as president, and the group is sponsored by Miss Ruth Collins.

The avowed purposed of the organization is to develop closer friendships, to promote social activities, and to make Arkansas State College a greater institution. In its yearly calendar of activities this sorority includes a number of worthwhile social events and benefits to campus life. Delta Beta Chi sponsors the first dance of the year, a no-date affair encouraging new students to become acquainted and to take part in social events.

On February 11, the sorority annually celebrates its founder's day with a banquet and ball. As a part of its Christmas program, the sorority sponsored this year's "White Christmas" program for the needy, in addition to its traditional singing of Christmas carols on the campus. An annual sorority-fraternity picnic is now held through the original suggestion of Delta Beta Chi.

Each summer the sorority holds a convention in Memphis; this is for the purpose of making plans for the next year, to interest new students in the school's activities, and to bring together the alumnae of the organization.

Our patrons are Miss Lenore Schierding, Mr. and Mrs. Guy French, Mrs. E. L. Whitsitt, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Eldridge, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Crosno, Mr. and Mrs. Haldane Strain, and Vernon Langston.

Delta Omega Sigma Fraternity was founded by five men—W. F. LeLoache, Jr., E. L. Talliaferro, Van Smith, Charles Light, and Charles Okey. Charles Light was the first president. Since that time Paul Chambers, Eddie Heath, and Lloyd Hancock have piloted the fraternity.

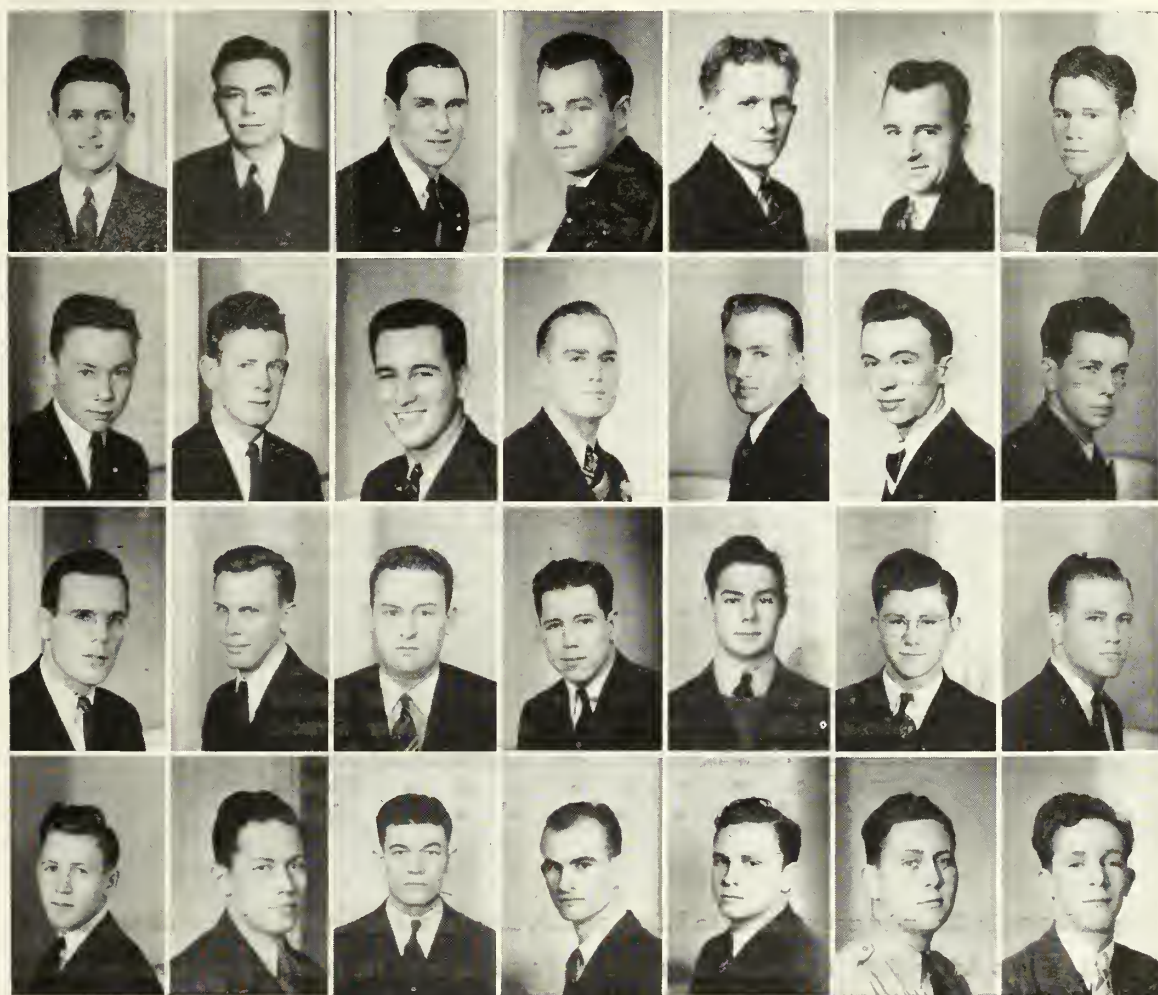

Guided by C. E. McMeans as sponsor, this organization has endeavored to do its part in promoting the activities which make for better scholastic and social surroundings on the campus.

During the past three years Delta Omega Sigma has sponsored dances with the profit being used to help the Annual drive. Two years ago the fraternity held the first formal dance on the campus. From time to time the organization gives smokers and other entertainments to encourage students to attend State College.

The fraternity has set aside a scholastic fund, to be added to each year, through which some student may borrow sufficient funds to help him continue his schooling.

Presidents since the initial year have been James Bridges of Walnut Ridge, Winford Wyatt of Jonesboro, Orville Kellett of Williford, and G. W. Clements of Jonesboro.

Social functions include the annual Christmas dance, the spring banquet, and an annual alumni New Year's Eve banquet.

Last summer, Kappa Sigma Nu held its first summer convention in Memphis with twenty-five active and alumni members present. The fraternity is planning the second annual conclave to be held this summer.

Zeta Tau Zeta Fraternity made its appearance on the campus of Arkansas State in 1937. Organized and chartered February 9, 1937, with 18 members headed by Clarence Adams, the fraternity took as its mission the promotion of better relationship between the fraternities and sororities on this campus. Clarence Adams of Jonesboro was succeeded by James DeShazo of Viola as president at the opening of the 1938 school term. Following his withdrawal from school at the end of the semester, he was succeeded by vice-president Charles Potter of Pine Bluff.

Charles Potter was chosen as president for the forthcoming school term; however, due to his failure to return to school, vice-president-elect Wilson Sifford of Cherry Valley served in that capacity until an election of a new president was held. At this election, Zeta Tau Zeta selected Kelly Thomson of Cotter to serve for the ensuing year.

Guy French and Dean B. Ellis serve as Faculty Sponsor and Activity Adviser respectively. This year Zeta Tau Zeta set a precedent by selecting Miss Billie Masner, freshman of Monette as their "Dream Girl."

Each year this organization offers an award to the most outstanding student in journalism and to the most outstanding athlete. Last year these students were Clarence Adams and Orville Kellett.

Zeta Tau Zeta celebrated its second anniversary January 23 with a colorful ball. This annual dance marks one of the outstanding social events of the year.

Each year the alumni of the College comes together to help celebrate one of the biggest occasions on the calendar—Homecoming Day. It is a time when former students meet new students, faculty members, and their old buddies.

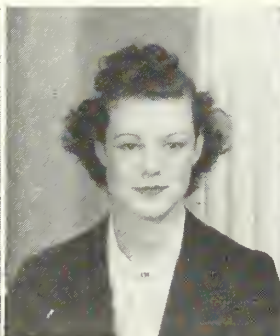

This year Maggie Lew Hogue, senior of Weiner, was nominated by the football squad and elected by the vote of the entire student body to reign over the day's festivities. Those selected as maids were Jessie Yerger, junior; Franchelle Jeffries and Kathryn Gill, sophomores; and Reba Mock, freshman.

On this particular October 22, these celebrities were suitably recognized at the football game between State and Hendrix College and were honored at the Delta Omega Sigma dance that night.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Silent youth always resounds
With all its eager cries
When foes and friends do abound,
And school colors fill the skies,
They have a spirit before unknown
When battle threatens near
They are our beacons to go on
To Fight! To Fight in coming years!

CHEER LEADERS

The cheer leading squad is responsible for much of the enthusiasm displayed at the various athletic encounters during the past year.

With not a single veteran returning to the squad this year, the group that was selected after a series of tests wasted no time putting themselves through the stiffest of drills in preparation for the first football game with Tennessee Teachers.

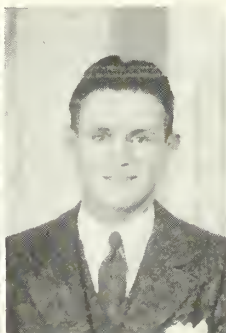

Frank Angelo, senior of Cotton Plant, was selected as head leader and capably fulfilled his duty. He was ably assisted by Jessie Yerger and James Ramsey, juniors; and Edward Worsley, freshman. Edward Cox was mascot of the squad.

ATHLETIC STAFF

Under the able direction of Herbert B. Schwartz, athletic director, Arkansas State College has placed its Department of Physical Training as number one in Arkansas.

The physical education program, as it is now, was begun at State when Coach Schwartz was placed at the head of the department. It is through his efforts that much progress has been made. Now nearly all students take part in some form of recreation. Intramural tournaments and contests in softball, tennis, badminton, paddle tennis, shuffle board, swimming, volleyball, and many others are held regularly.

Herbert B. Schwartz

Leslie Speck, the "little man" of football, is probably one of the youngest college mentors in the United States. Coach Speck has participated in sports and athletics all his life and is now completing his third year as instructor and coach at State. His teams both on the grid-iron and off, have showed that they have learned the true meaning and value of competitive sports.

To Wendell Davis, basketball coach, goes countless praises for the fine basketball teams he has turned out in his three years at State. Himself a former all-star and captain of State's team, Wendell's persistence and knowledge of the game have won him statewide recognition as a basketball coach.

Completing her fourth year at State, Mrs. James Mason has established a complete recreation program. She sincerely believes that happiness comes through good health. As head of the women's athletics and physical training at State, Mrs. Mason has done her part to bring about this objective for the women students.

Ivan "Cotton" Busby, elongated center from Dexter, Missouri, transferred to State following his freshman year at Lambuth College and immediately won the commendation of coaches and fans by his willingness to try and his aggressive playing.

"Cotton" handled center duties his three years here and was captain last season. Playing in every game, despite a troublesome shoulder injury, he contributed greatly to the successes of the Indians. As head of the squad he capably fulfilled his job of keeping the team spirit at a peak at all times.

FOOTBALL

Clifton "Cupie" Mack of Rector, captain of the 1937-38 Indian squad, was one of the most outstanding players ever to wear the black and red. During his freshman and sophomore years he received state-wide acclaim as one of the best pass receiving ends in this part of the country.

In his last two years, he was shifted to the back field where his brawn really counted when he began pounding the enemy line. His broken-field running and his passing kept the grandstand on its feet most of every game.

Under the able guidance of "Cotton" Busby, elongated captain of the 1938 squad, the Indians went through a fairly successful season.

Coach Leslie Speck called the Arkansas State gridders for their first drill early in September. Faced with the loss of numerous lettermen, Speck put his team through strenuous workouts for their first game with West Tennessee Teachers.

"Cupie" Mack, captain of the 1937 team, was the spearpoint of the Indians attack. Both he and Busby, along with Joe McGuire, are finishing their last year at State.

With not a single letterman returning for the track squad, Coach Leslie Speck took a group of freshmen and sophomores and wrought a very promising team. Although they showed only fairly well against Southwestern, it is quite possible that next year and the year following State will have a fine track team.

"Dub" Fisher, freshman from Monette, is one of the mainstays of the team, capturing points in vaulting, high jumping, and broad jumping. Other promising tracksters are Garrison, Heck, Kirk, Barnhill, Conder, and Chambers.

INTRAMURALS

Athletic Director Herbert Schwartz has charge of all men's intramural sports and is assisted by Coach Wendell Davis and appointed managers and captains. Arkansas State College has one of the most complete intramural programs in the south, each student having access to all games and equipment.

Tournaments are held among classes, fraternities, and organizations. Records of winners and individual scores are kept in the Intramural Director's office. Schedules and standings of tournaments are posted on a bulletin board in R. E. Lee Wilson Hall.

Other games and non-tournament games are played in the armory every day with many students enjoying the recreational advantages offered. Intramural letters and awards are given at the end of each year to those who have earned them. Students who are members of the varsity or freshman squads may not participate in the various sports.

The giving of letters is based on a point system. The winner or winners of a tournament each receive 100 points, second place receives 75 points, and third place receives 50 points, and all others taking part receives 35 points. Each individual who earns a total of 500 points receives a letter at the end of the year on Honors Day. A trophy is awarded by the Zeta Tau Zeta Fraternity to the man who earns the most points and the W. A. A. trophy is awarded to the woman who earns the most points during the year.

Intramural sports and tournaments for women of Arkansas State College are sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association and are conducted under the supervision of Mrs. James Mason. All women enrolled in the College are entitled to intramural privileges including the use of equipment and facilities provided by the athletic department for competition and recreation.

The Women's Athletic Association meets twice a month in order to check on tournaments, organize new tournaments, and to regulate other recreational programs. Through this organization the team captains are elected and schedules of games are made. Records of individual and team standings are kept as well as a list of points earned by each participant. Tournament schedules and other athletic news are posted on the bulletin board.

By sponsoring a "Backward Dance" each year the Women's Athletic Association provides a means for purchasing equipment. Members of the Women's Athletic Association are those women who have received intramural letters and those trying to earn them. It is one of the largest organizations on the campus.

Read with particular care the material which is presented in the pages following, for it was only through the cooperation of the business firms whose advertisements appear here that this book was possible.

The price of your subscription would never cover the cost of putting out such a volume—so we must turn to those real friends of the institution and its student body for their bit of goodwill. Too often a firm and its owners will say, “Sure, we’re behind the College in all it undertakes”, but when the time comes for action, they refuse to accept their part of the burden.

So to those of our business friends who did do something about it, may we show our appreciation by doing our bit for them. Remember the names of the firms who advertise here and whenever possible during the summer and the coming year patronize their establishments.

BY THE WAY—

The first of the year a fraternity pledge looks forward to the initiation.

The morning after he looks behind to see the results.

When McMeans tries on Sis Phelps's hat, many people take him for a chorus girl.

This is not so, however.

Clark Hetherington's a Kappa Sig, but you can't hold that against him.

Ed Garrison's a DOS, but you can't hold that against them.

CHATTER is a humorous column in the Arkansas State College Herald.

Judging by the scale, the obituary column is a scream.

Jeevies: "Am I the only man you have ever kissed?"

Sis: "Yes, and by far the best looking."

"What kept you out of school yesterday, Jessie—acute indigestion?"

"No, a cute French teacher."

GIVE HIM TIME

Herald Reporter (impatiently): "Hasn't the Humor Editor got my joke yet?"
Swindle: "Not yet, but he's trying hard."

Ashley: "And at Speck's request you gave up drinking?"

Hyatt: "Yes."

"And you stopped smoking, for the same reason?"

"Yes."

"And it was for her that you gave up dancing, card parties, and pool?"

"Yes."

"Then why don't you marry her?"

"Well, after all this reforming I realized I could do better."

Schwartz: "How's the team coming?"

Speck: "Like counterfeit money—the halves are full of lead and the quarters can't pass."

Following is one of our favorite pointless jokes. It has been much circulated this year; so perhaps you might like a souvenir copy.

Once there was a brave, fierce lion who lived in a jungle. One day he walked up to a big tiger and said, very bravely and fiercely: "Gr-r-r! Why aren't you big and strong like I am?"

The tiger was scared to death. It just turned and slunk off into the jungle.

Next the lion saw the huge giraffe and said, very bravely and fiercely:

"Gr-r-r! Why aren't you big and strong like I am?"

The giraffe was so terrified, that he too, fled into the jungle.

Then the lion said to an enormous elephant, very bravely and fiercely:

"Gr-r-r! Why aren't you big and strong like I am?"

The elephant just turned pale and tip-toed away!

Next the lion came to a little, tiny baby monkey and said, very bravely and fiercely:

"Gr-r-r! Why aren't you big and strong like I am?"

The little monkey rolled its big brown eyes and said shyly, "I've been sick."

This story appears through the courtesy of a certain student who is quite active in the Military Department. Perhaps insistence would have been a better word than courtesy. Anyhow, here's the story--

It appears that there was a young medical student who was very much in love. So much so, in fact, that he had neglected his surgical work in order to be with the girl. On the day of the big dance to be given by his fraternity, to which he had managed to get a date with the girl, his surgery professor called him and said,

"A negro was killed in an accident today, and we have his head here in the laboratory. If you'll come down and dissect it tonight, you can probably pass the surgery course."

The student said that he would try to make it. Then he called the girl and told her what had happened, and that he would be forced by circumstances to break his date with her.

"That will be all right," she said. "Bob will be glad to take me to the dance."

Now, Bob was our hero's biggest competition; so he said,

"No, I'll see if I can't get out of this work tonight. I'll call the professor and then call you."

So he phoned the professor again, and explained all the circumstances to him. But the man was adamant. He said,

"This is absolutely your last chance. If you don't come and dissect this head tonight, you will flunk out."

The poor boy didn't know what to do. He called the femme and explained what the professor had said. He couldn't decide whether to go to the laboratory and dissect the head, or to have his date as planned and flunk the course. The girl listened patiently for about thirty minutes; then she said coolly,

"Why don't you flip a coin?"

Lloyd Chambers: "Glenda, you do all the talking and never listen."

Glenda: "How ridiculous! I've heard every word I've said."

She was only the butler's daughter, but oh! how she like to be maid.
